FROM

THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY,

TRANSMITTING,

In compliance with a resolution of the House of Representatives of the 10th July last, statements showing the condition of the different State Banks in 1832.

FEBRUARY 13, 1833.

Read, and laid upon the table.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, February 12, 1833.

SIR: I have the honor to state, that, in order to enable me to comply with the resolution of the House of Representatives, dated the 10th of July last, requiring the Secretary of the Treasury "to lay before this House, at the next and each successive session of Congress, copies of such statements or returns, showing the capital, circulation, discounts, specie, deposits, and condition, of the different State banks and banking companies, as may have been communicated to the Legislatures, Governors, or other officers of the several States within the year, and made public; and where such statements cannot be obtained, such other authentic information as will best supply the deficiency," a copy of said resolution was transmitted to the Governor of each State and Territory, accompanied by a request that he would communicate to the department the necessary information.

I now enclose communications received from Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont, New York, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Ohio, North Carolina, Georgia, Indiana, and Arkansas, which are all that have been received. Should any others come to hand before the close of the session, they will be forthwith transmitted to the House.

I have the honor to remain,

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

LOUIS M'LANE,
Secretary of the Treasury.

The honorable THE SPEAKER

 Rate of dividend on amount of capital of the banks, as existing when dividend was made,
 3 per cent., less 1-3d of 1-100th part of 1 per cent.

REM.—Those banks marked with an asterisk (*) are new banks, and had made no dividend on the first Saturday of October. Several banks, whose capitals have been increased, declared their last dividend on the amount of their former capital. The Mendon bank, which was in operation on the first of October, under its old charter, has not accepted a renewal, and is, consequently, no longer in operation. The Railroad bank, in Lowell, Oriental bank, in Boston, Citizens' bank, in Nantucket, and Grand bank, in Marblehead, have gone into operation since October 1st, making 73 banks now in existence.

ABSTRACT from the Returns of Banks in Massachusetts, showing the State of said Banks on the 1st Saturday of August, 1832. Prepared for the use of the Legislature. Edward D. Bangs, Secretary of the Commonwealth.

The following banks, whose capitals have been increased, declared their last dividend on the amount of their former capital, viz. Franklin Merchants' in Boston, Oriental, Gloucester, Merrimack, Lowell, and Railroad. The following banks have gone into operation since the first Saturday of August, viz. Market, Warren, Charlestown, Phoenix, Wrentham, and Adams. The following banks have been chartered since the return of October, 1831, but have not gone into operation, viz. Mercantile in Boston, and Bristol County Bank. The City and Globe Banks returned, in addition to their regular capital, the amount borrowed by them from the State, viz. the City Bank, $100,000, and the Globe Bank, $54,000. This addition is not included in the abstract.

STATE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE,

Secretary's Office, November 23, 1832.

His excellency the Governor directed me to furnish you with the information relative to our bank, required by a resolve of Congress of July 10, 1832, and requested by a circular from the Treasury Department, of July 12, 1832.

The details could not be procured in a condensed form to be sooner forwarded. Enclosed is the situation of our several banks, as they were in May, 1831 and 1832.

I have the honor to be, sir,

Your most obedient servant,

R. METCALF, Secretary.

MONTPELIER, October 15th, A. D. 1832.

STATE OF NEW YORK,

Secretary's Office, Albany, August 31, 1832.

DEAR SIR: When the Governor left Albany he handed me your circular of the 12th July. I send the report of the bank commissioners of our State. All the bank returns are made to them, and the report contains all which is presented to the Legislature. They have a mass of information which might aid your inquiries; and, if of sufficient importance, I doubt not any details would be cheerfully furnished, on addressing a letter to Charles Stebbins, Cazenovia, Madison county, New York. He is the State Commissioner; is a very clear headed man, and is possessed of all the materials to give you information in a useful form.

With great respect,

Your obedient servant,

A. C. FLAGG.

The Hon. LOUIS McLANE, Sec'y of the Treasury.

IN ASSEMBLY, January 31, 1832.

Annual Report of the Bank Commissioners.

ALBANY, January 31, 1832.

SIR: We have the honor, herewith, to transmit to the Legislature our annual report.

With great respect,

Your obedient servants,

GEO. R. DAVIS,
CHARLES STEBBINS,
JAMES REES,
Bank Commissioners.

To the Hon. CHARLES L. LIVINGSTON,
Speaker of the Assembly.

REPORT, &c.

To the honorable the Legislature of the State of New York.

The bank commissioners, pursuant to the act to create a fund for the benefit of the creditors of certain moneyed corporations, and for other purposes, respectfully report, that the whole number of banking institutions in the State, exclusive of the three branches of the United States' Bank, is now sixty-four. Two of them have branches, and the aggregate capital of the whole amounts to $24,133,460.

During the last year, the eight banks in the city of New York, whose charters were extended at the last session of the Legislature, have become subject to the bank fund law, and fifteen new banks have gone into operation, thereby increasing the number of institutions subject to our visitation, from twenty-nine to fifty two, and the amount of capital from $6,294,600 to $18,856,800.

The Chautauque County Bank went into operation since the first instant: all the other institutions which have been incorporated under the bank fund law, were in operation on that day.

We have the satisfaction to report, that each of the institutions subject to our inspection is in a safe and prosperous condition.

The examination of the city banks has been rendered less laborious than we had anticipated, by the previous preparation and efficient assistance afforded by the officers of those institutions; and in our intercourse with all, we continue to receive that cheerful and valuable assistance, and kind reception, which render our duties comparatively pleasant and easy.

Annexed is a list of the several banks of the State in operation on the first instant, and an abstract taken from the reports made to us on that day, similar to the one which accompanied our report of the last year.

These reports, and the more minute information acquired by personal examinations, give us a very satisfactory knowledge of the situation of each bank, and our experience affords us every assurance that the just confidence of the public in the present system for the regulation of banking has not been misplaced.

The currency under it has thus far been sound, and, within the State, undoubted. And in other and distant States it is believed to have acquired, and to be gaining a character not before enjoyed by the paper of our local banks.

While, however, we are congratulating ourselves upon the success which has attended our system, and upon the apparently profitable business of the last year, we should not be inattentive to the true condition of things at present, nor overlook the consideration that the currency may be affected by causes beyond the control of municipal regulation.

The past year has been uncommonly favorable for the operations of banking. The abundance of money, and the activity with which most kinds of business have been prosperously conducted, have enabled the banks to extend themselves, and sustain a circulation hitherto unprecedented.

In our report of the last year, we estimated the amount of bank notes in circulation of the banks of this State at $10,397,541, on the first of January, 1831.

The amount, on the first of January instant, may be estimated as follows: Circulation of 51 banks, as shown by the annexed statement, $12,005,824
Circulation of the 12 remaining banks, estimated the same as last year, - - - - -	2,406,606

	14,412,430
Deduct for packages in transitu, - - - - -	300,000
	$14,112,430

It should be remarked, however, that the estimate of the circulation of the New York banks was last year founded upon what was supposed to have been their permanent circulation after the daily-exchanges which they are in the habit of making.

The reports which we have from those banks this year were made before the exchanges of the day, and will consequently show a larger amount of circulation.

But as the circulation of the twelve banks which we have estimated the same as last year, was probably considerably more this year, it is believed that the increase of circulation the last year may be fairly estimated, as in the foregoing statement, at $3,714,889.

The following table will show the progressive increase of bank capital and circulation of all the banks of the State, except the New York city and Long Island banks:

	Capital.	Circulation.
1829, January 1,	- - -	$ 4,508,056
July 1, - - -	- - -	3,885,473
1830, January 1,	- $4,452,260	3 974,345
July 1, - - -	- - -	4,564,597
1831, January 1,	- 7,022,260	6,862,541
July 1, - - -	- - -	7,735,726
1832, January 1,	- 8,172,260	8,622,277

The statistical accounts of the banks in the neighboring States, so far as they have fallen under our observation, also show a large increase of circulating bank notes.

In Massachusetts, the amount has risen within the last year from $5,124,000, to $7,739,000. In Rhode Island, from $929,000, to $1,342,000. In Pennsylvania, from $7,800,000, to $8,700,000.

The tendency of an abundant money market, and of activity in business generally, is to encourage overaction as well among banks as individuals; and the above comparisons would seem to show that such has been the result in this instance.

Comparing the imports and exports of the last two years, there can be no doubt that much of the bustle and activity of business which have distinguished the last year, have been owing to an over-trading with other nations, the injurious effects of which have already been partially felt, but probably not yet fully experienced.

They were, in

1830, imports for the year ending Sept. 30,	- - -	$68,500,000
exports, foreign articles,	- $14,400,000
domestic, - - -	- 59,400,000
		<hr/> 73,800,000
1831, imports for the year ending Sept. 30, -	- - -	97,032,000
exports, foreign articles, -	- $18,324,000
domestic, - - -	- 62,048,000
		<hr/> 80,372,000

This statement shows an increased importation of foreign merchandise in a single year, of near thirty millions of dollars; an increase of the amount left in the country for consumption of more than twenty-four millions; and a balance against the United States upon the last year's operation, of near seventeen millions.

This balance is undoubtedly considerably reduced by charges of shipment upon our exports, but is still sufficient to have turned the current of exchange against us, which in the spring was setting considerably in our favor.

A reaction is the inevitable consequence of overtrading, and a pressure has followed it in this instance, which has been severely felt in the city of New York, and which it is not unreasonable to expect may be continued and extended.

During the months of October and November a very large amount of specie was drawn from the banks in New York, and exported to Europe. Shipments are also understood to have been made during the present month, and the pressure is considered as by no means removed. The rate of exchange is still sufficiently high to warrant the exportation of specie, and the debts due to the city banks have not yet been essentially curtailed, so as to extend the effects of the pressure.

It will be seen by the state of the banks, that the amount of specie in the city has been considerably reduced since the first of July, and very large amounts have, in the mean time, been collected there from different parts of the Union, and shipped to Europe.

The amount on hand on the first instant would seem to be small when we reflect that most of the shipments are made from that port, but still the operations of commerce are constantly bringing it in, and it is to be hoped that the pressure may pass over without deranging the currency, or causing a ruinous depression of prices.

If this can be effected, the effects of the pressure, so far as they have yet been felt, will not perhaps be the subject of regret. They will have given a check to this species of overtrading, which always needs occasional restraint, and which unrestrained proves uniformly injurious, and often ruinous.

Pressures of this description may be expected to occur so long as we continue dependant upon foreign nations for so large an amount of manufactured articles, because the characteristic enterprise of our citizens naturally and imperceptibly leads to occasional overtrading; and great facilities are afforded, both to our own and foreign merchants, by the established system of giving credits for duties. The Government practically lends its capital to be employed in overstocking the markets.

The very large amount of circulation of the banks out of the city of New York, compared with that of the last year, is attributable, in part, to the use of capital belonging to the canal fund, in part to the establishment of new banks, and partly to a general overtrading in the country, somewhat encouraged by the facilities afforded by those banks.

Its effects have been felt by some of the banks in the interior, whose resources have been impaired in consequence of an indifferent market for the staple of the west, or rather perhaps in consequence of its having been purchased at prices beyond what a fair market would warrant.

The magnitude of the canal fund is now such as to have an important influence over the banking concerns of the State, so long as the present mode of its investment is continued. It may be considered as an addition to the bank capital of the State of about two millions, which will be annually accumulating. Deposits from this fund, on the first instant, were distributed among three of the banks in the city of New York, and fourteen in other parts of the State, which report to us; and nearly all the institutions, particularly in the country, directly or indirectly participate in the use of the capital which it affords.

The circulation of the last year has been more than could have been sustained without the aid of that fund, and more perhaps than prudent operators should have hazarded upon such a reliance.

Too many of the banks have been tempted by the prospect of profits to push their discounts in easy times to the utmost limit of the law, depending upon a loan to carry them through the customary season of pressure, or to sustain them in a change of times. And we are very apt, in calculations of this kind, to omit the circumstance that the same state of things which creates as to us the necessity of borrowing, lessens as to others the ability of lending.

The system adopted by this State for the regulation of banking having become settled, and possessed in a great degree of public confidence, the stocks of the new banks, which have lately been offered to the community, have almost all been sought for with great avidity.

With respect to the country banks, the excessive amount of subscriptions has been more owing to the demand for such investments by individuals abroad, than to any redundancy of capital in their immediate neighborhood. Probably the capitals of but few of them would have been taken by individuals residing within the sphere of their operations, if no demand for such stock had existed elsewhere.

But when men of capital abroad were found to be willing to make such investments at a trifling premium, competition became animated, and enormous subscriptions were made, rather for the purpose of realizing a premium upon the sale of the stock, than of holding it as an investment.

Strifes for the control of the institutions have also been the cause of increasing the amount of subscriptions to a still greater, and, in some instances, to an unprecedented extent.

We should err exceedingly, therefore, in estimating the actual and real demand for bank stock for purposes of investment, by the amount of recent subscriptions, or by the excitement which has followed some of the distributions.

Still, however, the business of banking has been so prosperous the last year, yielding in the country an interest upon capital somewhat above the legal rate, that we should expect to find numerous applications for bank charters.

The actual number of applications would seem so far to exceed any prudent calculations of profitable investment, as to give the subject somewhat the character of an excitement.

Of the actual wants of the community, the Legislature is most competent to judge, and with it rests the entire responsibility of action.

The community have a deep interest in the preservation of the system which has thus far answered the expectations of the public, and an interest paramount to any claims of individuals or particular places to share in the profits or convenience of banking.

It has always been the policy of the Government to have this business conducted by means of monopolies. The present system is dependant entirely upon that policy, and, without an abandonment of both, it will be impossible for all to share in the anticipated profits of banking.

Too great competition will necessarily lead to evils of the most serious import, and endanger the system under which we are now progressing so successfully.

All experience demonstrates, that in our community, such is the activity and enterprise of our citizens, that the borrowers of money increase with the means of supplying their demands.

The multiplication of banks creates fictitious capital by means of circulation, highly beneficial when used to a reasonable extent, but extremely injurious when pushed so far as to derange the currency and unsettle prices.

Although we entertain the opinion that the currency cannot be essentially degraded so long as the payment of specie can be enforced, yet it is not to be doubted that an excessive increase of bank capital, and the consequent over issues of bank paper which it produces, always lead to overtrading ruinous to individuals, embarrassing to some of the moneyed institutions, and thereby crippling others, and may so overburden the whole as to render the enforcement of specie payments utterly impossible.

As a sound paper currency can never rest upon any other basis than the certainty of its convertibility into coin at pleasure, and as we use less metallic currency than any other nation in the world, it becomes us to be ever watchful of the dangers to which our circulating medium may, from this cause, be exposed.

Notwithstanding the security which is afforded by our system for the ultimate payment of bank debts, nothing could be more disastrous than that necessity of suspending specie payments, which is always attended by excessive over-issues of paper, and the consequent fluctuation in value of every kind of property.

The limitation of the amount of circulation to twice the amount of capital, although a wise and salutary restraint, and operative upon the smaller banks in the interior, is yet wholly inoperative upon those institutions which have the legal capacity to fill up by far the greatest amount of our circulating medium. They are now most effectually restrained from issuing the permitted amount by the rapidity with which it is returned and converted into specie.

Exempted from the necessity of redeeming in coin, the aggregate of banks in this State would have the power of issuing near fifty millions of paper, or near four times the amount which they now sustain, and that, too, under circumstances calculated to affect the prices of property nearly in proportion to the amount of issues.

The policy of incorporating banks with small capitals in the city, has heretofore been questioned in the Legislature, although three have been incorporated, and are now in operation, whose capitals together amount to only $700,000.

However true it may be that such institutions can afford important facilities to moderate dealers residing in their neighborhood, we believe their benefit, in this respect, has been somewhat overrated, and consider it certain that more danger is to be apprehended from small banks in the city than in the country, or than large ones in the city.

Not because they may not generally be as well and prudently managed, but because the control of them is more likely to be obtained by individuals for sinister purposes, as the amount of stock necessary for the purpose is within the reach of comparatively moderate means.

Little danger is to be apprehended from attempts of this description upon the country banks. Their stocks are so distributed as to render it difficult to procure a large amount within a short period, and generally held by persons who do not hold them as a marketable commodity; besides, any attempt to procure a large amount would be followed by immediate notoriety, and excite suspicion.

But in the city, stocks are daily changing owners; a liberal premium will always command them; and the purchaser effects his purchases through the intervention of a broker, without being known himself, until his object is accomplished.

There is reason to suppose that a highly respectable institution in the city, during the last year, by the vigilance of its officers, narrowly escaped the effect of such an operation.

An instance of a fraud upon one of the banks has been detected during the last year, which was committed about two years previous by one of the book-keepers. The loss, although considerable, was insufficient to absorb the surplus profits on hand.

Cases of this kind, to some extent, may occur under any circumstances, but the opportunity was afforded, in this instance, by the accidental circumstance of the teller's duty being cast upon this book-keeper for a short time, during the illness of the teller.

Such frauds are almost always progressive, and not unfrequently result from what at first was intended only as a temporary expedient, partially extenuated, perhaps, by a doubtful prospect of afterwards being able to rectify the false entry, and restore its fruits. We know of no other safeguard which the banks can adopt, than to keep the duties of the subordinate officers as separate as possible, and to require of their accountants that the books shall at all times balance.

Balances should be taken periodically, and at short intervals of time; and, whenever practicable, by another officer than the one whose work is under examination.

We are in the habit of examining particularly the balance sheets which we find have been taken from time to time, and of swearing the officers who took them as to their correctness; and we think there is much safety not only in requiring these balances to be taken, but in having all the subordinate officers understand that they are to be called upon, from time to time, to verify, upon oath, the accuracy of their work.

Where we find an excess of the aggregate credits or liabilities of a bank beyond its debits or means, we can regard it in no other light than as a loss to that amount, to be repaid from the profits before a dividend can be made.

The operation of the law, in this respect, is a powerful incentive to vigilance and accuracy in a most important particular, and we are confident that there is nothing impracticable in attaining all reasonable accuracy, either in a limited or extensive business.

Entertaining the same views as to the impropriety of deposits without security, with private bankers, as were expressed in our report of the last year, we are happy to perceive that the amount of such deposits was about $400,000 less on the first instant, than on the first of January preceding.

The object of depositing with individuals in preference to banks, being generally for the purpose of procuring interest, rather than of facilitating the ordinary operations of banking, we think such deposits may fairly be considered as loans, except in a very few cases, where special circumstances evidently render such deposits more convenient than deposits in the incorporated banks.

Respectfully submitted,

CHARLES STEBBINS,
JAMES REES,
GEORGE R DAVIS,
Bank Commissioners.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
FRANKFORT, KY., 20th August, 1832.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 12th ultimo, accompanied by a "resolution of the House of Representatives," to which you refer. In compliance with your request, I herewith forward a report of the President of the Bank of Kentucky, of the 1st of December last, and the report of the President and directors of the Bank of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, of the 6th of the same month, to the Legislature, from which you will derive all the information within my power to communicate.

I will only add the fact, that the Bank of the Commonwealth does not redeem its notes with specie, and consequently they are under par. My opinion is, that a very considerable portion of the sum total, as stated in the report, will, upon the winding up of the institution, fail to be realized to the Government.

I have the honor, respectfully,
To be your obedient servant,
THOMAS METCALFE.

Honorable L. McLANE,
Secretary of the Treasury.

Report of the President and Directors of the Bank of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

BANK OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY, Dec. 6, 1831.

SIR: I have the honor, herewith, to communicate a report showing the situation of the principal bank, and each branch district, on the 30th day of November, 1831, inclusive. The notes under discount amount to the sum of $611,242 80; notes in suit to $205,329 56; real estate to $57,860 52—making an aggregate sum of $874,432 88. The interest received on notes renewed and paid off during the fiscal year, which has just expired, amounts to the sum of $39,771 87; and the expenses for the same period, to the sum of $15,838 45—leaving a net profit of $23,933 42, which will be passed to the credit of the Treasurer during the present month.

It will be seen that the Treasurer is indebted to the bank for overdrafts, $128,060 67, which includes the sum of $28,685 41 in specie, paid upon his checks in favor of the Rockcastle bridge and the turnpike road between Maysville and Louisville; leaving a balance of $15,067 09 in specie, which has been applied to the payment, and in full discharge of the balance due on two judgments obtained against the bank in the Federal Court of Kentucky. The two latter items, making the sum of $44,752 50 in specie, the amount received from the bank of Kentucky upon distributions of stock held by the State in that institution.

In my last report to the Legislature, the bad and doubtful debts upon notes due the bank was estimated at $133,042 33, which has since been reduced something under that amount.

The probable losses at the branches, on account of defalcations, robberies, &c., will, however, make an entire loss to the bank of more than $210,000, as will appear by reference to the annexed table.

From a careful examination into the situation of these debts, it has been ascertained that a number of the parties (entirely solvent and good) have removed into other States. In all such cases, copies of the records and judgments have been obtained, and the necessary steps taken to put them in a train for collection.

A partial settlement has been made with the late cashier of the Harrodsburg Branch, so far as to reduce the deficit there to the sum of $14,849 42, which amount the cashier claims to have been in the vault at the time of the robbery. A suit has been instituted upon his official bond, and is still pending.

An arrangement has been entered into with a part of the securities of the late cashier of the Bowlinggreen Branch, by which the sum of $4,000 has been secured to the bank, and the balance may (from the situation of the parties) be considered of little value.

After two efforts to obtain a judgment against the cashier and securities of the Louisville Branch, both of which were unavailing in consequence of the disagreement of the juries, Mr. Payne then offered to pay $1,060, upon condition that his official bond should be cancelled, and the pleadings in the case withdrawn. Believing it doubtful whether a verdict could ever be had, and having first obtained the advice of the counsel on both sides, the board of directors accepted the proposition. Of course nothing more will be realized out of the amount charged to profit and loss in the accounts of that branch.

In relation to the balance due from the late cashier of the Lexington branch, circumstances, not within the control of either of the parties, have prevented its final liquidation. Suit has been commenced, but suspended on a satisfactory assurance of immediate settlement and payment.

Believing it to be the interest of the bank to dispose of the real estate as fast as possible, and whilst the board of directors had it in their power to sell on liberal credits, no opportunity has been omitted of selling, when the sacrifice was not considered too great, especially of such property as was in the nature of things likely to become less valuable.

In the discharge of the important duties confided to them, the President and Directors have endeavored to observe such a course of conduct in the management of the bank, as ordinarily governs a prudent man in the transaction of business in which he is personally interested. The great objects in view, first, the ultimate security of the debts; and, secondly, to wind up the concern in such a way as shall be least calculated to produce a reaction upon the community. Actuated by such feelings, with a proper sense of their high responsibility, and a just regard for the interests of the State, when the payment of debts have been resisted with all the ingenuity and zeal which the talents and learning of counsel could invent, backed by strong and powerful combinations, setting up pleas of payment, non est factum, the constitutionality of the bank, &c. &c., the board of directors have felt themselves imperiously called upon to retain such counsel as should be able successfully to meet the multifarious and embarrassing questions of this kind that have arisen in this way, as well as in the discharge of debts contracted by the branches before their withdrawal, for attorney's, clerk's, and sheriff's fees, the expenses have been augmented greatly beyond what they otherwise would have been. Although it is not anticipated that a reduction in the expenses corresponding with the profits, can be effected, yet the attention of the board has been directed to that subject, and a commencement made which will be continued as the true interests of the institution may dictate.

In obedience to a resolution of the General Assembly, approved 15th January, 1831, the President and Directors did, on the 4th day of February last, in the presence of the Secretary of State, (the Governor being absent,) the Auditor, and Treasurer, cancel and burn $150,000 of the notes of this institution, leaving the amount of bills issued at $350,000; $127,971 93 of which is now in the vaults of the bank.

Should it be the pleasure of the Legislature to order more of the paper to be burnt, I would respectfully suggest, as a means of greater security, that it should be done from time to time as it accumulates, reserving only a sufficient sum for business purposes.

I am, sir, with due regard,

Your obedient servant,

H. WINGATE, President.

HON. JOHN BREATHITT, Speaker of the Senate.

EDMUND H. TAYLOR, Cashier.

December 6, 1831.

*Report of the President of the Bank of Kentucky.*BANK OF KENTUCKY, December 1, 1831.

SIR: It has heretofore been our practice to close the books of this institution on the 10th instant, for the purpose of making an annual report to the Legislature; but as that body has been convened at an earlier period than usual, and as it has been intimated to me that it may be necessary, in the course of legislation, to have a report at as early a period as practicable, I have now the honor of enclosing, herewith, a general statement, showing the condition of the institution on this day, inclusive.

The entire amount of capital stock now held in the institution, (exclusive of the residuary interest,) is $283,580; of which the State of Kentucky is the owner of 5,967 shares, amounting nominally to $149,175; and corporate and individual stockholders own 5,383 shares, amounting nominally to $134,405, by which it will be seen that the State owns 584 shares, amounting to $14,100 of the complete stock—more than all the individual and corporate stockholders collectively.

By a comparison of the present with the last annual report, it will be seen that, since that period, the institution has redeemed of its capital stock 31 shares, amounting to $190; and, by means of negotiations and compromises with individuals for bad debts, and in part by the sale of real estate, effected a redemption of 2,135 shares of the residuary interest, of one-fifth on each share, amounting nominally to $42,700; leaving of that stock unredeemed, in the hands of individuals, 7,856 shares, amounting nominally to the sum of $160,700.

Since my last annual report, the President and directors have made two distributions of the capital stock of $5 on each share, and have paid to the treasurer $29,835 in silver, and a like amount in notes of the Bank of the Commonwealth and its branches, which, when added to the previous distributions made and paid over, is 75 per cent., or $75 on each share, leaving 5 per cent., or $5 on each share remaining to be paid to the State, and those individuals who have not surrendered their stock, and when paid, will place all the stockholders in the institution on an equality in relation to the amount they shall have received. This desirable object, it is confidently believed by the President and directors, can, with proper exertions, be effected by the first April next.

The “current profits” of the institution, since the first day of January last, amount to $14,834 26, and the “current expenses” for the same period, to $6,105 60, which, deducted from the “current profits,” leaves a net gain of clear profit of $8,728 66; which will, at the end of the year, together with that which may accumulate in the interim, be carried to the general account of surplus profits. It will be seen by a comparison of the present with the last report, that but a small reduction has been effected in the “current expenses” of the institution. Nor can I perceive any source from which to expect a further reduction to any considerable extent, except in discontinuing two of the agencies, and, consequently, two of the agents now attached to the institution. This will be done as soon as those two agents shall have completed their present tour of collections, and settled their accounts at this office.

The real estate owned by the institution, and disposed of within the current year, amounts to the sum of $55,306 64, the whole of which was, by express stipulation, paid or made payable in stock of the institution, or gold or silver, within the current year. Notes of the corporation made payable to bearer, which were then in circulation, amounting to the sum of $1,083 25, only, have been redeemed at this office by payment in silver, and were subsequently cancelled and burnt in the presence of the auditor and treasurer of this State, which reduces the amount now in circulation to $32,571 14. This fact is conclusive to my mind, that our gain by the loss and destruction of the notes of the corporation will exceed the estimate heretofore made.

It sometimes happens that debtors to the institution, from whom nothing can be made by execution, are the owners of more or less of its joint stock, which cannot be reached but by a bill in chancery, the expenses of which would, in many instances, equal or exceed the amount in contest. It not unfrequently happens with debtors thus situated, to sell their stock to individuals for money; which stock, by an ordinance of the President and directors, should remain as some indemnity to the institution for these debts. Whether the bank has a lien on the stock in such cases, or precedence over other creditors or purchasers, has never been directly decided in relation to this institution. But the same question has been decided in the case of Dana vs. Brown, 1st J. J. Marshall's Reports, page 304. It is therefore respectfully submitted to the consideration of the Legislature, whether it is not just and proper to give the bank a lien on all such stock where there are no other resources of procuring payment.

At the last session of the Legislature, a resolution was passed by the Senate, requesting "the President and directors to make out, by the next session of the Legislature, an expose of the surplus profits and losses of the bank, in conformity to the principles of this report." In compliance with which, the labor has been commenced, and the work is progressing as rapidly as the limited means within the control of the institution will permit, consistent with the ordinary or current business of the day.

Its completion, however, cannot be anticipated within the time prescribed by the resolution, nor can it be material as regards legislation on the subject, because another session of the Legislature must intervene before the institution will be in a condition to make a distribution subsequent to that alluded to in a previous part of this communication.

The period fixed by law for finally closing the concerns of this institution, is not now distant, and it must be a desirable object with the Legislature and individual stockholders, as it is with the officers of the bank, that it should be effected with as little delay as practicable. All good debts due the institution, whether for original accommodation or for the purchase of real estate, will be collected before the expiration of the time limited by law for closing the concern of the bank; but to collect all the doubtful and bad debts will be impracticable. The period, too, will soon arrive, when the profits of the institution will not defray its expenses. Can it be wise policy, then, to prolong the existence of an institution with a set of officers running over the country in search of insolvent debtors, and perhaps not collecting as much money in the course of the year as will pay their salaries?

The President and directors are using every effort in their power to make compromises with the individual debtors to the institution, from whom nothing can be made by execution; but they doubt their authority to sell and transfer those debts to third parties. It is therefore respectfully submitted to the consideration of the Legislature, whether authority should not be given the President and directors, at their discretion, to dispose of such debts at public auction or otherwise, at such time and place, and in such manner as they may deem best for the interest of the institution, and to give to the purchaser, as assignee, all the rights which the institution had in the prosecution of its claim. If this course is adopted, the state and individual stockholders will soon realize the remaining interests they respectively hold in the institution, and the Bank of Kentucky will exist no longer.

I have the honor to be, respectfully,

P. DUDLEY, President.

The Hon. JOHN J. CRITTENDEN,

Speaker of the H. R.
